Bio:

Rob Brown has spent most of his career in the financial services industry as a top-producing advisor as well as in several senior leadership roles. Now, as a business coach, Rob helps his clients achieve excellence while living more purpose-filled lives. Rob is a devoted husband and father to triplet girls, and a lifelong Cleveland Indians fan.

"Truest Fan" is a story about turning the simple lessons we learn from baseball, loving God and others into a way of living each and every day – and encourages others to do the same.

Speaking Topics:

- Capturing the life-changing power of self-belief and becoming the most authentic version of yourself
- Eliminating your distractions and unleashing the unmistakable energy of putting your most important priorities first
- The 7 powerful Truest Fan principles and how they will help you build a better life, career, team and organization
- How to overcome fear, failure, busyness and stress to stand out from the crowd and make an impact on your team, clients, and the world
- Accepting the ever-present and inescapable love of God to better serve others with confidence, strength, energy and passion

Fun Facts:

- Travels to Cleveland to attend 20+ Cleveland Indians baseball games each year
- First book, "Delivering the Ultimate Client Experience" was published in 2014
- Leads a Men's Bible Study and serves on a ministry team in a maximum security prison
